A FABLE, BY CHARLES LAMB .-- " My dear children," said an old rat to his young ones, " the imfirmities of age are pressing so heavily upon me, that I have determined to dedicate the short remainder of my days to mortification and penance in a narrow and lonely hole which I have lately discovered; but let me not interfere with your enjoyment. Youth is the season for pleasure; be happy, therefore and only obey my last injunction, never to come near me in my retreat. God bless you all!" Deeply affected, snivelly audibly, and wiping his paternal eyes with his tail, the old rat withdrew, and was seen no more for several days, when his youngest daughter, moved rather with fillial affection than by that curiosity which has been attributed to the sex, stole to his cell of mortification, which turned out to be a hole, made by his own teeth, in an enormous Cheshite cheese!
